

Jonathan's Check-up
Steve Vinton, July 26, 2007

Jonathan's check-up at Texas Children's Hospital today revealed to the doctors that, while the conduit that they worked on last year hasn't narrowed even a little bit, it is very possible that it is leaking. The tests that they ran today tend to lead the doctors to draw that conclusion but the results aren't conclusive and therefore they want to do an MRI on August 16th so that they can know for sure what exactly is going on. Once they do that then they'll let us know what we'll need to do.

We would certainly be very grateful for your prayers for Jonathan. We sure are glad that we followed the doctors' orders and brought him back to the US now for the check-up!