

He just can't stop smiling ...
Steve Vinton, July 5, 2007

My phone had run out of battery so I had no way of knowing what was going on over there in the offices during the nine and a half hours that Godfrey had been at the Ministry of Education today.

But when he walked through the door, the smile all over his face said everything and I knew without him even saying a word that, yup, that the government had officially registered and accredited our school at Sawala!

Our students will take the national examinations this fall after all!

The smile is absolutely all over Godfrey's face.
He just simply can't stop smiling ...
